

Acme Corp - New Hire Onboarding Guide

Document 02 | People Operations | Effective January 2025

Welcome to Acme Corp

This guide walks new employees through their first 90 days. Your first three months are known as the probation (introductory) period, during which you and your manager confirm that the role is a good fit.

Your First Week

On day one you will receive your laptop, building access badge, and accounts for email, the HR portal, and internal tools. Your manager will schedule a 30-day and 60-day check-in to review your progress.

Probation Period and Benefits

The probation period lasts 90 days from your start date. During this period you are eligible for health benefits from day one, but paid time off (PTO) does not begin accruing until the 90-day probation period is complete. After you pass probation, PTO accrual is backdated to your start date so you do not lose any earned time.

Setting Up for Remote Work

If your role supports remote work, review the Remote Work Policy (Document 03) with your manager. Remote work arrangements must be agreed with your manager before they begin.

Who to Ask

For questions about pay, benefits, or leave, contact People Operations through the HR portal. For equipment or account issues, contact the IT service desk.
